DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Palladian style stuccoed building of three stories with stone quoins and string courses. Other features include a gable roof, iron grates, first floor windows and doors within recessed arches, and gable parapets with coping and raised center section. A semielliptical gable recessment contains date of construction.

Interior - brick vaulted ceiling. Downstairs hall runs length of the building and separates the jailer's quarters from prison rooms for debtors. Doors to these rooms are made of double layers of heavy plank. The hinges are about three feet in length.

The upstairs, which is entered through a heavy door at the stair landing and another at the top of the staircase, is used for prisoners. This floor has barred cages in the center, permitting free circulation of air.
